

Terms and Conditions

Personal Account Information

We collect only the minimum personal information in order to match people who want to car pool and share a ride. We require the following information:

- User ID: This is required to identify you to others.
- Email: This is required and is confirmed by us before an account is activated. The address is used to communicate with you about others who may want to share a ride.
- Name: This is required to have a record of who owns this account.
- Phone: This is optional and can be provided to others who want to share a ride.
- Gender: This is required because some drivers / riders want to only share a ride with others who are the same gender.
- IP Address: We collect the IP address of the computer used to sign up for security purposes.

None of the personal account information is provided to others without your permission. We will not sell or share your personal information with other individuals, groups or organizations without your permission.

Trip Information

We collect only the minimum trip information in order to match people who want to car pool and share a ride. We require the following information:

- Location: This can be an address or cross streets and is used to identify the start and ending location of your trip.
- City: This is needed to identify your trip location.
- State: This is needed to identify your trip location.
- Zip: This is optional, although we will calculate your zip code based on the provided location information.
- Trip Info: This includes start and return times and restrictions, such as "No Smoking"

Only your User ID is publicly disclosed to others. If you provide an exact address, we will "X" out the last digit of that address for your privacy. You have the option of publicly disclosing your email and/or you phone number for each individual trip. We will forward ride requests from others to you until you feel comfortable contacting the rider / driver directly. If you request your email and/or phone number to be private, others can only contact you by becoming members of our site.

Safety

This web site has been designed to provide a safe ride share experience. We disclose no information to others that can identify you or where you live and act as an intermediary until you feel comfortable contacting the other rider / driver directly.

We also offer the following features for your safety and privacy:

- No public disclosure of your personal information without your permission.
- If you keep your information private, this information is only disclosed to others who are members of myGreenRide.
- We offer gender matching for ride sharing.
- We offer email matching, if you want to limit ride sharing with others who also work for the same company or organization (i.e. xxx@intel.com or xxx@asu.edu)
- We confirm the email and IP address of our members.

We recommend talking on the phone and meeting with the other person before sharing the first ride. Unfortunately, we live in a fearful society that sensationalizes tragic events. We feel that ride sharing can be a safe and positive experience for everyone. Still, we recommend using caution and common sense when ride sharing with others.
